

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Media Contact

Lyn Maize
ACS
Director Market Analysis
972-373-5662
Lyn.maize@acs-inc.com

ACS Adds Learning BPO Industry Leader Ed Trolley as Vice President of Learning Outsourcing Services

DALLAS, TEXAS: July 11, 2007 -Affiliated Computer Services, Inc. (ACS) today announced the appointment of Ed Trolley as Vice President of Learning Outsourcing Services. He will guide the company's continued growth in the learning business process outsourcing (BPO) marketplace and manage the delivery of end-to-end, world-class outsourced talent development solutions.

Trolley will be responsible for shaping the strategic direction of ACS' Learning Services group and will enhance ACS' position in the growing training outsourcing market. He will also streamline procedures to implement new learning business process outsourcing (LBPO) clients as well as oversee ACS' day-to-day operations associated with delivering LBPO services on multi-scope human resources outsourcing engagements.

"We are excited to have a professional of Ed's caliber join ACS' team of learning professionals," said Richard Klingshirn, ACS executive managing director of learning services. "Ed brings a seasoned, strategic perspective to our organization and will further enhance our abilities to build and deliver world-class learning process outsourcing services to our clients."

Trolley is a distinguished industry veteran, holding many successful roles as an executive, operations manager, visionary, and innovator with both services buyers and supply-side companies such as Dupont, the Forum Corporation, and Mellon. The father of the concept of Training Process Outsourcing, Trolley is a widely recognized industry expert and co-author of the book, "Running Training Like A Business: Delivering Unmistakable Value.” He is also a contributing author to two ASTD published books, “Building Learning Capability Through Outsourcing” and “Lies About Learning.”

“As the training pioneer who wrote ‘Running Training Like a Business’ and the guy who has likely managed more enterprise-level training organizations than anyone alive, Ed Trolley is a strong choice,” says Jay Whitehead, publisher of HRO Today, HRO Europe, FAO Today, and CRO Magazines.

Trolley is a highly requested presenter at industry conferences such as ASTD, TechLearn, The World Outsourcing Summit, and HRO World. Trolley was most recently recognized as one of the industry’s 20 most influential people in training in 2007 by TrainingIndustry.com, and his concepts and ideas continue to be cited in hundreds of business publications around the globe.

“ACS is a new powerhouse in the learning BPO marketplace,” said Trolley. “I am thrilled to be a part of this innovative organization, and look forward to sharing my experiences and successes to help new and existing ACS clients transform their training capability to deliver exceptional value, at an acceptable cost to their constituents.”

ACS, a global FORTUNE 500 company with 58,000 people supporting client operations reaching more than 100 countries, provides business process outsourcing and information technology solutions to world-class commercial and government clients. The company’s Class A common stock trades on the New York Stock Exchange under the symbol “ACS.” ACS makes technology work. Visit ACS on the Internet at www.acs-inc.com.